

Our Commitment to Patient Access

We believe access is essential in ensuring advances are available to patients who are in need of treatment options.

This is why we created a unique approach to decision-making anchored on the clinical value of our products and guided by these three core pillars:

FIERCELY FOCUSED ON

PATIENTS

Our clinical program is centered on developing new treatment options to meet the needs of patients with B-cell diseases. We remain grounded in this mission every day and pledge to work with a patient-first mentality in all that we do.

ACCESS

We understand the importance of continuity of care for patients, every step of the way, and we are committed to partnering across the health care system to support patients in accessing our medicines.

SOLUTIONS

We recognize the need to identify new ways of approaching how medicines are developed, used and paid for. We will continue to develop disease- or indication-specific approaches to improve patient care and will advocate for novel approaches that improve patient outcomes.

These guiding principles are inspired by our mission and will continue to shine through in our commitment to patients. We are dedicated to creating a portfolio-wide approach aligned with clinical value and medical innovation to help move to a health care system where patient care and access are paramount.